Logo guidelines

Our logo represents who we are. We're a premium, experiential brand that has created and elevated the spoken-word entertainment category. We may be a part of the Amazon family, but we operate distinctly and independently. Therefore, we have two logos: our Audible logo, which allows our brand to stand on its own, and our byline logo, which represents our connection to Amazon, our parent company.

LOGO GUIDELINES

The Audible logo

The Audible logo, without the Amazon byline, is our global logo. It's identical around the world.

The logo is comprised of two parts:

- The Audible wordmark, set in a customized version of the Brutal typeface.
- The Audible Chevron (or “mark”), which represents the unleashing of the power of voice. The Chevron appears in the superscript position above the right side of the wordmark, indicating that it is Audible that is unleashing the power of voice, and that power is exponential.

LOGO GUIDELINES

Audible byline logo

The Audible logo, with “an Amazon company” underneath, is our byline logo. The Amazon byline is meant to evoke trust and a sense of security for customers and prospects, as well as provide advance context for the request for Amazon credentials in our purchase flow. The perception of Amazon varies across the world, so please confirm with your local marketplace country leads for usage.

This logo is typically localized for any market whose language is represented by the Latin alphabet. For languages/markets utilizing other character sets (e.g., Japanese), use the standard English-language byline.

LOGO GUIDELINES

Logo spacing and centering

Keep the space around the logo free of other visual elements.

The positioning of the Audible Chevron mark with the wordmark creates a centering challenge. To achieve optical centering when the logo is on its own:

- Center-align at the left edge of letter 'i'.
- Don't center using the absolute width of logo.
- To achieve optical centering when the logo is with type: – Center-align at the right edge of the letter 'd'.

LOGO GUIDELINES

Logo size requirements

All elements of the logo must remain legible. The logo must not be smaller than the minimum sizes required.

The byline must be fully legible. In cases when specs make legibility difficult, default to the wordmark and Chevron only.

Minimum size:

Minimum digital height: 30 px
Minimum print height: 0.4" / 10 mm

Minimum digital height: 60 px
Minimum print height: 1" / 25 mm

LOGO GUIDELINES

Examples of improper use

Don't use the wordmark by itself or in a sentence.

Don't use a color besides Solar.

Don't use a color version of the Amazon smile.

Don't color the Amazon byline.

Don't use Solar for any part of logo except Audible mark.

Don't add an outline to the logo.

Do not use earlier logo iterations.

Don't change the typography of the logo.

Don't rearrange the relationship between Chevron and wordmark.

Don't place the logo on backgrounds with insufficient contrast.

Don't angle, transform, or stretch the logo.

Don't add a drop shadow to the logo.

Don't alter logo language; use official versions in other languages.

Do not use the full logo on solar backgrounds.

LOGO GUIDELINES

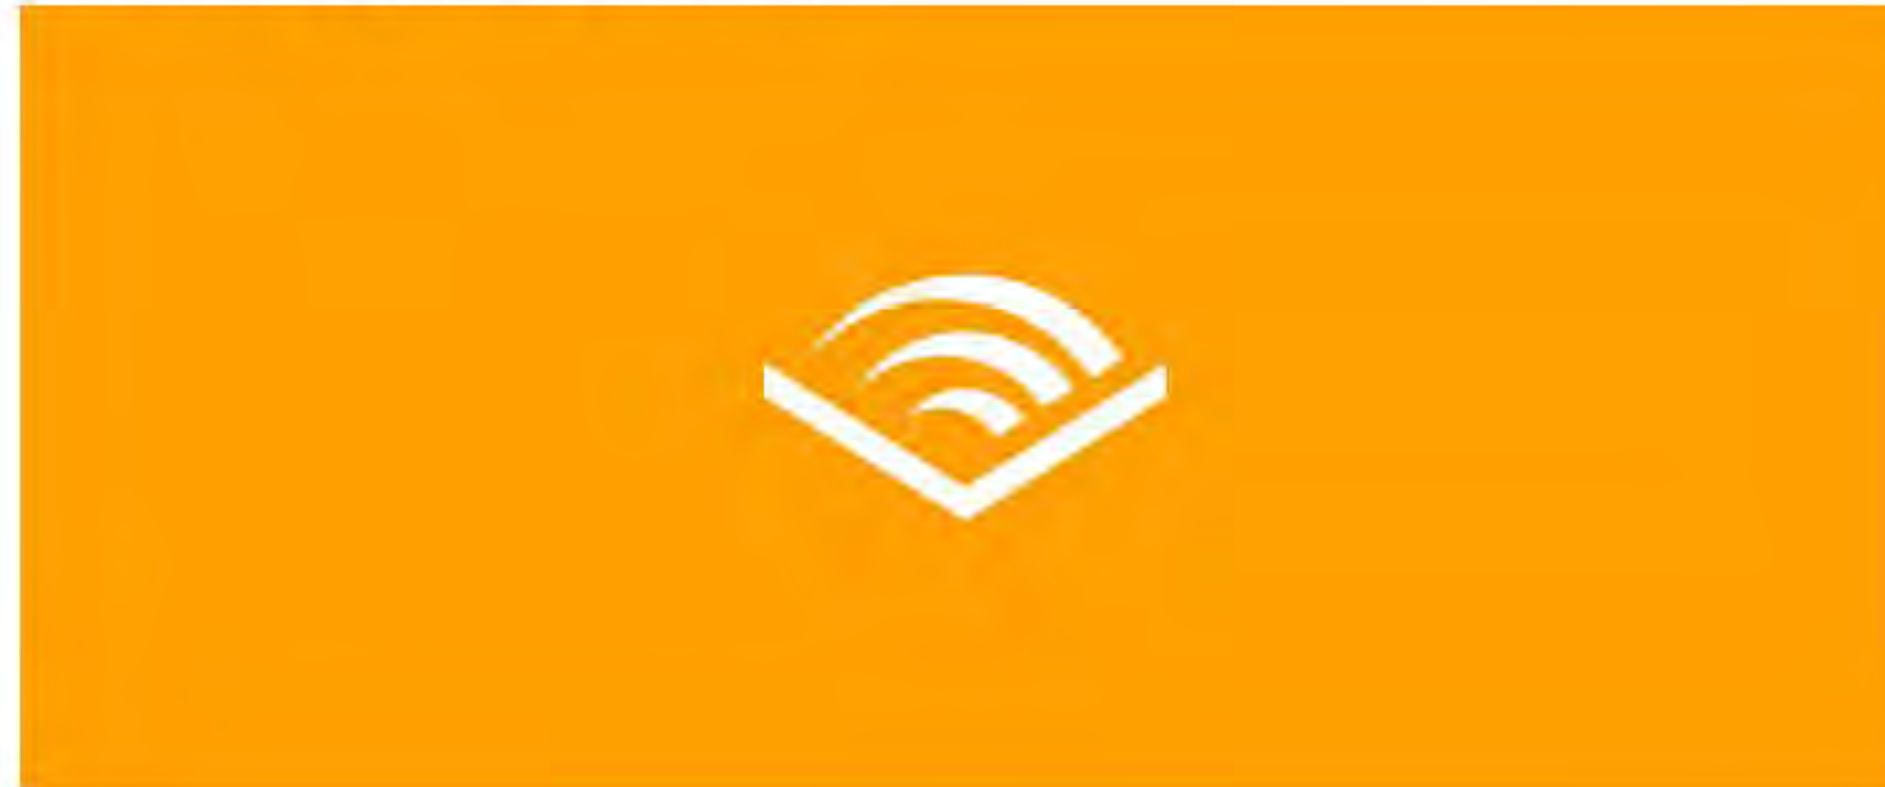

The Chevron

The Audible Chevron is a graphic element, not a substitute for the full Audible logo. If there's a desire to use the Chevron on its own, you must reach out to our public relations team for permission. Our Chevron may be used as a graphic shorthand only when the context makes it clear that the message comes from Audible. It should be Solar whenever possible. It may also be knocked out to White when necessary.

Preferred usage - Solar

One-color option - knockout

LOGO GUIDELINES

Chevron spacing and size requirements

The Chevron should always appear with sufficient clear space around it, and never at a size smaller than fits on an app icon.

Minimum digital height: 30 px

Minimum print height: 0.5" / 12 mm

Clear space

LOGO GUIDELINES

Examples of improper use

The Chevron is Audible's mark and may be used independently of the wordmark when context makes it clear that the message comes from Audible.

The Chevron should be Solar when possible.

It may also be knocked out to White on colored backgrounds and images. The stand-alone Chevron should seem "lit up." Therefore, don't use the Chevron in Black or any other colors.

Don't use the Chevron in Black (unless the communication can only be printed in Black due to technical limitations).

In fact, don't use the Chevron in any brand color besides Solar, Midnight or White when necessary.

Don't angle or otherwise transform the Chevron.

Don't create new patterns from the Chevron.

Don't flip the Chevron.

LOGO GUIDELINES

Co-branding

For co-branded content, products and partnerships, we use a bar between the two logos, spaced and sized according to the diagram on the right.

Note: We can use the 'u' in the audible logo to help measure the spacing in the co-branded logos. Partner logos should be vertically centered with the Audible logo for horizontal lockups. Partner logos should be horizontally centered using the "d" for vertical lockups.
